Navajo President Buu Nygren statement on President Biden stepping aside as candidate

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. – Navajo Nation President Nygren has issued this statement regarding President Biden stepping aside from the 2023 presidential race:

As Navajo Nation President, I express my deepest gratitude to President Joe Biden for his resilient leadership for Indian Country.

President Biden has been a steadfast champion for tribes across the United States. His legacy will be etched in history with hope and grace, as he stands among the most impactful presidents. I am honored to call him a friend and to have worked alongside him.

President Biden has always supported the Navajo people, and we are profoundly grateful for his vision of a country that rises above its differences. He has tirelessly fought for the soul of our Nation, consistently putting his country first. Through his leadership, we have seen major investments in tribal law enforcement, the American Recovery Plan Act, and the Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act.

Stepping down from the presidential race takes immense courage and grace, showing his dedication to the greater good.

President Biden embodies resilience, fearlessness, and extraordinary public service. The Navajo people are deeply thankful for his commitment and leadership.

Dr. Buu Nygren, President
